

GUESS WHICH ONE.

The hook is not a sentence. It is a test, run on camera, in the first two seconds.

Twenty-eight seconds, shot in one afternoon.

28S

RUNTIME
9:16 ·
1080×1920

56

SPOKEN WORDS

12

SHOTS
~2.3S EACH

0.2S

WHEN THE PRICE
HITS THE SCREEN

THE WHOLE IDEA

Two gold chains, side by side, near-identical. One hand twists both. One kinks and stays kinked; ours springs back straight. The only words on screen are “one of these is ₹2,149” — then: guess which one. The viewer has to answer a question before they can leave, and because it is a test rather than a claim, it works with the sound off.

Pieces Bold Nocturne Bracelet ₹1,999 · Charm Box Chain ₹2,149

Shoot One afternoon · one window · phone on a tripod · 60fps · no wear log needed

Read time 4 minutes

WHAT SEJAL HAS, AND WHY IT MATTERS.

BRACELET · YF5144-BRA

BOLD NOCTURNE BRACELET

₹1,999 ~~₹3,999~~

- 18cm thick flat curb link chain, warm gold tone
- Lobster clasp with a short extender chain
- Broad links that hold their shape and catch light across the flat faces
- 18K gold-plated over surgical stainless steel
- 4.9★ from 50 reviews

NECKLACE · YF5146

CHARM BOX CHAIN

₹2,149 ~~₹3,309~~

- Fine box chain — square links that hold their shape and resist twisting
- Small rectangular clear zircon charm at the front
- One size, adjustable
- 18K gold-plated over surgical stainless steel
- 4.9★ from 51 reviews

READ THIS BEFORE ANYTHING ELSE

Both lines above are Naira's own product copy, not marketing invention. "Surgical stainless steel" and "square links that hold their shape and resist twisting" are the two most useful sentences in the whole catalogue, and nobody in Indian demi-fine is saying either of them out loud.

That is what this script is built on. The base metal is why plated jewellery fails — and these are built on steel. The link shape is why a chain kinks — and these hold. Both facts can be shown on camera today. You do not need to have worn them for months. That is why there is no "I've had this for sixty days" anywhere in this script.

"GUESS WHICH ONE." • 28 SECONDS

Read at a normal pace — about two and a half words a second. Do not rush and do not perform. Curious rather than salesy is right. The pictures are doing the selling; you are just telling someone what they are looking at.

0.0-1.8 [no voice — the twist is the hook]

SHOW THE HOOK. One unbroken take. Two chains side by side on a plain surface, both gold, near-identical. One hand twists both at once. The cheap one kinks and stays; the box chain springs back straight. No cut. Record the twist live — the first sound in the ad is the chains, not music.

ON SCREEN

#Ad

ONE OF THESE IS ₹2,149

1.8-3.4 "Guess which one."

SHOW Hold on the two chains, still. It is a real question — ask it and leave the beat.

ON SCREEN

GUESS WHICH ONE.

3.4-6.2 "In a photo you genuinely cannot tell."

SHOW Both chains flat and still, lit and shot like a product photo. This is the frame where they look identical — that is the point, so make it convincing.

6.2-8.4 "The difference is the link."

SHOW Macro on the cheap chain's link: stamped, open, gapped. Tripod, focus locked.

ON SCREEN

LOOK AT THE LINK

8.4-11.4 "That one's open. This one's a box chain."

SHOW Cut between the two links in matched framing — same distance, same angle, same light — so the eye compares them without being told to.

ON SCREEN

OPEN

BOX CHAIN • SQUARE LINKS

11.4-14.2 "Square links, so it holds its shape."

SHOW Box chain draping over the fingers and settling. Let it move.

14.2-16.8 [no voice — only water]

SHOW THE TAP. One unbroken take. Wrist with the bracelet, chain at the neck, under the running tap, hold three seconds, out, one shake, to camera still wet. No cut, no speed-up, no music over it. A tap — never a pool, a bath or the sea.

ON SCREEN

NO CUTS. ONE TAKE.

16.8-19.6 “Surgical steel underneath the gold. Anti-tarnish sealed.”

SHOW Macro — light travelling across the bracelet’s flat curb faces as the wrist turns.

ON SCREEN

SURGICAL STEEL BASE

ANTI-TARNISH SEALED

19.6-21.6 “Two years on the plating.”

SHOW Lobster clasp closing, macro, with the click.

ON SCREEN

2-YEAR PLATING ASSURANCE

21.6-24.4 “Chain twenty-one forty-nine. Bracelet nineteen ninety-nine.”

SHOW Both pieces worn, wrist and neck in one frame. The chip carries delivery too — never quote a price the checkout beats.

ON SCREEN

₹2,149

₹1,999

+ ₹150 INSURED DELIVERY

24.4-28.0 “Seven-day returns. COD. Tap Shop Now.”

SHOW Natural light, small smile, point at the button. Never say “link in bio”. Then 1.2s of end card over live footage of the chain, not a flat colour — music resolves, never cuts to silence, and it loops.

ON SCREEN

7-DAY RETURNS

COD

↓ SHOP NOW

WHAT TO BRING. WHAT TO SHOOT.

Shoot in this order — dry setups first, wet last, so nothing has to be dried twice. Three takes of everything, eight of the hook.

What to have ready

One old gold-tone chain

Your own, cheap, and close enough to the Charm Box Chain that they read alike at a glance. It needs a visibly open or gapped link for the macro. No brand name or logo in frame — we compare to a chain, never to a competitor.

A running tap

Kitchen or bathroom, with good light on it. Record the water sound live — it is the best audio in the reel.

A white card

Held opposite the window to bounce light back into the shadows. A sheet of A4 works.

Both Naira pieces, clean

Wipe with a microfibre cloth before every setup. At macro distance, one fingerprint is the whole shot.

Tripod or phone stand

Non-negotiable for the macros. At that distance the depth of field is a few millimetres and breathing moves the focus.

A quiet room, 10 minutes

Sound only: the twist and spring-back, the lobster clasp clicking, the chain poured onto a hard surface. Phone 10cm away, nothing else playing.

PHONE SETTINGS — ONCE, BEFORE ANYTHING

60fps so slow motion stays an option · tap to focus, then press and hold to lock AE/AF — focus hunting mid-take ruins most jewellery footage · no flash, ever · macros handheld with a slight drift, anything with your face on a tripod. Movement makes metal look alive; stillness makes a face look honest.

Ten setups

01 · THE HOOK

The twist — one take, 3–4s

Both chains side by side, twisted at once. Cheap one kinks and stays; box chain springs back. Never cut between them. Tripod, top-down, plain surface. Shoot eight takes — this is the whole ad.

02

The two chains, still

Flat, side by side, lit and shot like a product photo. They must look identical here. Same distance, same light, no favouritism.

03 • EVIDENCE

The open link

Macro on the cheap chain's stamped, gapped link. Tripod, AE/AF locked, slide it into the focal plane.

04 • EVIDENCE

The box link

Macro of the square links. Match shot 03 exactly — same distance, angle and light — so the comparison is honest and obvious.

05

Chain draping

Poured over the fingers, allowed to settle. Handheld, slight drift. Record the sound.

06 • PROOF

The tap — one take, 5–7s

Wrist under running water → three seconds → out → one shake → to camera, still wet. Never cut inside it. Five takes.

07

Curb faces in light

Macro, bracelet, wrist turning so light travels across the flat faces. One soft key, one small hard glint.

08

The lobster clasp

Macro, closing, with the click. Nameable hardware nobody in this category advertises.

09

Both worn together

Wrist and neck in one frame, natural light. This is the price beat.

10

You, to camera

Tripod, plain wall, eye level, window light behind the phone. Small smile, point at the button. No ceiling fan in frame.

11

End-card underlay

Slow drift across the chain on a plain surface, 4s. This replaces a flat colour slab.

12

Sound only, 10 minutes

Twist and spring-back. Clasp clicking. Chain poured onto a hard surface. Silent room, phone 10cm away.

Say this, not that

NEVER SAY

× “Waterproof”

× “18K gold”

× “It never tarnishes”

SAY INSTEAD

✓ “Rain, washing up, hands — it stays on”

✓ “18K gold-plated” — these are plated over steel, not solid gold

✓ “Anti-tarnish sealed, two years on the plating”

× "I've worn it for months"	✓ Nothing — you haven't. The construction is the proof, not the time.
× Naming the cheap chain's brand	✓ "That one's open" — describe what's in frame, never who made it
× "₹1,999" on its own	✓ The chip carries + ₹150 insured delivery alongside it
× "Only a few left"	✓ Nothing — unless it is genuinely true that day
× "Link in bio"	✓ "Tap Shop Now"
× "If you have sensitive skin..."	✓ "It's built on surgical steel" — talk about the object, never the viewer's body
× Any other brand's name	✓ "the eight-thousand-rupee one"

THE TWO THINGS THAT ARE NOT NEGOTIABLE

1 · #Ad goes in the top third of the frame, from the first second, and holds for nine seconds. Top third, not bottom — Instagram covers the bottom with its own buttons. Required for gifted collaborations, not just paid ones, and the brand carries the liability.

2 · Neither the hook take nor the tap take may be cut. An edit between the twist and the spring-back, or between the water and the reveal, makes the proof worth nothing — and the hook is the twist, so a cut there costs the whole ad.

EVERYTHING SAID OUT LOUD.

The whole voiceover as one continuous read, with nothing but the words. This is the version to send Sejal for a trial recording — if she can read it straight through in about twenty seconds, the script is right.

[twist — no voice] “Guess which one. In a photo you genuinely cannot tell. The difference is the link. That one’s open. This one’s a box chain. Square links, so it holds its shape. [tap — no voice] Surgical steel underneath the gold. Anti-tarnish sealed. Two years on the plating. Chain twenty-one forty-nine. Bracelet nineteen ninety-nine. Seven-day returns. COD. Tap Shop Now.”

56 words · about 20 seconds of speech · a 1.8s silent hook and a 2.6s silent tap · 28 seconds total.

What to send her for the trial

Hi Sejal — before we shoot, could you send a quick voice note reading this straight through? Phone voice memo is fine, nothing fancy.

“Guess which one. In a photo you genuinely cannot tell. The difference is the link. That one’s open. This one’s a box chain. Square links, so it holds its shape. Surgical steel underneath the gold. Anti-tarnish sealed. Two years on the plating. Chain twenty-one forty-nine. Bracelet nineteen ninety-nine. Seven-day returns. COD. Tap Shop Now.”

Curious rather than salesy. “Guess which one” is a real question — ask it and leave a beat after it. You’re telling a friend what she’s looking at, not selling to her. Should come out around twenty seconds.

Two things to check for us before the shoot: (1) twist the Charm Box Chain gently and let go — does it come back straight? (2) do you have an old gold-tone chain, cheap, with a link that’s gone open or gappy? We need both for the opening shot. If the box chain kinks, tell us and we'll change the hook before you shoot anything.

WHY THE HOOK IS A TEST AND NOT A SENTENCE

It survives the mute. A spoken hook is worth nothing to the majority who watch without sound. A demonstration is legible either way — and this one has a price on screen at 0.2 seconds.

It opens a loop the viewer has to close. “Guess which one” makes them answer before they can scroll. That is a stronger device than any adjective, and they leave knowing something they didn’t — which is what gets a reel saved rather than watched.

It argues construction. Your audit of 498 competitor creatives found nobody in this category argues craft. Square links. Surgical steel. Lobster clasp. Of ~1,500 active Indian jewellery ads on Meta this month, one ran a durability mechanism. One.

It never says anything ugly. Nothing is called cheap, nothing is shamed, and there is no insult to what she already owns — the other chain is simply open, stated as a fact about a thing in frame. The brand stays soft while the argument stays hard.

And nothing in it is invented. Every claim is either Naira’s own product copy or something the camera proves in a single unbroken take.