[no voice] ▶ Wearing it, sleeve back, already in motion as she looks up. Never open static. ON SCREEN #Ad

0.4

"I almost didn't order this." ▶ To camera. Flat, honest, no smile yet. Half a second of nothing after it.

2.9

"Two thousand rupees for something that looks like this felt wrong." ▶ Macro on the bracelet — unhurried, pavé link catching. Let the viewer agree with her.

6.9

"Like there had to be a catch." ▶ Back to her. Beat.

9.2

"The catch is it's plated. It's not solid gold and it never said it was." ▶ To camera, completely level. The line the whole ad rests on — don't soften it, don't rush it.

14.0

"18K over surgical steel. Two years on the plating." ▶ Macro: links rotating, then the clasp closing with the live click. One soft key, one hard glint. ON SCREEN 18K GOLD-PLATED · SURGICAL STEEL

17.4

"Nineteen ninety-nine, one-fifty delivered." ▶ Worn, whole arm, daylight. Price chip beside the piece, never in a corner. ON SCREEN ₹1,999 + ₹150 INSURED DELIVERY

"Then I went back for two more." ▶ Both pieces worn — wrist and neck in one frame. The offer arrives as something she did, not an announcement.

22.6

"Any two is twenty percent off. Any three is thirty." ▶ Hold on the two pieces. Two quiet chips — thin rule, brand type. No starburst, no red. ON SCREEN ANY 2 · 20% OFF ANY 3 · 30% OFF

"Seven-day returns. Tap Shop Now." ▶ Small smile. Then 1.2s end card over live footage — never flat colour, never silence. Music resolves, loops. ON SCREEN 7-DAY RETURNS COD ↓ SHOP NOW

WHY THE OFFER LANDS HERE

Bolting BUY 2 GET 20% onto the end would undo the script. The whole ad is her admitting she doubted it — so the strongest possible proof is that she went back and bought more. That is revealed preference, not a claim, and it makes the ladder read as a consequence rather than a pitch. It also serves the number: two pieces lands at ₹3,198, above the ₹1,800–2,400 AOV target. A bundle ladder is the one discount that raises order value instead of devaluing the piece.

PRODUCTION — THE ONES THAT COST MOST

- Motion in frame one, first cut inside 3s, product on the wrist at 0.0s.
- Captions fixed at y 1150–1330. Nothing below y=1420 — Instagram's chrome. 68–76px, weight 700–900, white, 3–5px dark stroke, no box.
- Licensed music, ducked 12–16 dB under the voice, resolving on the end card. No trending audio — not cleared for paid.
- Record the clasp click live — ten minutes, best audio in the reel.
- Macros: tripod, tap to focus then hold to lock AE/AF, clean the piece each take. Plain wall, one white balance, face on the tripod.

NEVER SAY

- "Waterproof" — the FAQ allows incidental contact only
- "18K gold" — it is 18K gold-plated over steel, and this script says so out loud, which is its whole strength
- A bare price with no delivery figure
- "Only a few left" / "ends tonight" unless true on the day
- "Link in bio" — it is a paid ad with a real button
- Any competitor's name

Disclosure: #Ad in the top third from frame one, held ~10s. Bottom third is covered by the app. Required for gifted as well as paid.

Confirm before she records. 1 · Did Sejal buy these? The script is a first-person purchase story. If they were gifted, swap 0.4 to "I'll be honest, I didn't expect much from this" and 20.0 to "And if you're getting more than one —". Slightly weaker, entirely honest. 2 · Is it really any two, and does it stack with NAIRA10? If the ladder is SKU-restricted or won't combine with the code, the chips must say so — a viewer who hits a different number at checkout is a complaint, not a sale.
